Course Description
This course centers on your creation and revision of original poems and engagement with the practice of offering thorough, empathetic feedback to peers in their creative process. Landmark collections from the past few years, particularly the cataclysmic years that were 2016 and 2017, serve as representative responses to the unmasking of the pernicious evils of misogyny/misvnoir, white supremacist violence, classism, and gender-binary biases that inform so much of what we write today. These collections also underscore the importance of the new voices reanimating the conversation about what those marked “male” and “female” can, cannot, should, and should not stay. This course aims to help you refine your sense of your poetic voice(s) and deepen your understanding of what your current poetic projects can synergize to become.

More Details on Requirements

1. Workshop Submissions
   Post two to three poems for workshop by Wednesday at midnight the week before your group’s Tuesday in queue. Indicate near the poem’s title which type of workshop you prefer. During the week between classes, read and write comments upon the poems that have been distributed, either neatly handwritten or clearly typewritten. You’ll return these copies to their authors at the next class. Some poems won’t be discussed in class, but all will receive written feedback. I am happy to discuss poems that aren’t discussed in class, as well as any revisions you do, during office hours. As a rule, poems should not be resubmitted to the workshop in revised form. Exceptions are conceivable; ask first.
   The heading for each assignment should include the following, double-spaced successively in the order listed, in the upper left corner of each assignment:
   - Your Full Name
   - Professor Wilson
   - EN/AAST 249
   - Date (21 February 2018)
   In upper-right corner of every subsequent page, you should include your last name and the page number (as in Wilson 2) of your work.
   Each heading should be followed by a title that summarizes the theme/thesis of your piece of writing. Please staple all materials before coming to class. When submitting your unit projects, please put all drafts and workshop handouts in a pocket folder, with your final draft on top.

2. Workshop Format
   During your week of workshop, you may select from one of the following workshop models:
   - Traditional: The poet sits silently taking notes as peers first discuss the poem’s strengths and then delve into ways the poet’s conceit might become more successful with revision.
   - Q&A: Peers convene and list a series of questions that the poet notes before selecting one or two of the most prescient ones to discuss as a class.
   - Snapshot: Each poet takes a turn, round robin, and makes a succinct, declarative statement as an observation about their peer’s poem.
   - Global Contract: Poets dissect the poem’s rhetoric, structure, and conceit from a macro/“big-picture” POV, discussing what it aims to say, how it teaches us to read it, why it turns and shifts as it does, what traditions/schools/other poets’ works it harks, etc.

3. Attendance
   Because a major portion of the work in this course is done in class, weekly attendance is mandatory. One unexcused absence is allowed; all others will negatively impact your participation and final grades. If you come to class and clearly exhibit you have not read the assigned texts, you not only will be marked absent, but you may be asked to leave class. Excessive tardiness and arrival without work will count as an absence. After three unexcused absences, you will automatically fail the class. Absences will not be excused without sufficient documentation, and a simple note that one visited the campus health center may not suffice.

4. Critical Writing
   In addition to participating in workshop, you will be required to do a 2- to 5-page response of at least one Visiting Writers Series participants’ public reading or craft commentary on another UA CW community reading or craft talk. The schedule is available here and in a PDF on Blackboard.
5. Back up your work in as many ways as you can (email, USB drive, UA+Box, external hard drive, etc.). Loss of work due to technological lapses may not excuse you from penalty.

6. Build a network among classmates so that when you are absent you can find out what you’ve missed. I will be available to help, but it’s important that you build a rapport with your colleagues as well.

Disability Statement
If you are registered with the Office of Disability Services, please make an appointment with me ASAP to discuss any accommodations that you’ll need. If you have a disability, but have not contacted the Office of Disability Services, please call (205) 348-4285 (Voice) or (205) 348-3081 (TTY) or visit 1000 Houser Hall to register for services. Students who may need course adaptations because of a disability are welcome to make an appointment during office hours. Students with disabilities must be registered with the ODS before receiving academic adjustments.

UAct: Ethical Community Statement
The University of Alabama is committed to an ethical, inclusive community defined by respect and civility. The UAct website (http://www.ua.edu/uact) provides a list of reporting channels that can be used to report incidences of illegal discrimination, harassment, sexual assault, sexual violence, retaliation, threat assessment or fraud.

Policy on Academic Misconduct
All students in attendance at The University of Alabama are expected to be honorable and to observe standards of conduct appropriate to a community of scholars. The University of Alabama expects from its students a higher standard of conduct than the minimum required to avoid discipline. At the beginning of each semester and on examinations and projects, the professor, department, or division may require that each student sign the following Academic Honor Pledge: “I promise or affirm that I will not at any time be involved with cheating, plagiarism, fabrication, or misrepresentation while enrolled as a student at The University of Alabama. I have read the Academic Honor Code, which explains disciplinary procedure resulting from the aforementioned. I understand that violation of this code will result in penalties as severe as indefinite suspension from the University.” See the Code of Student Conduct.

Emergency Contact Information
UA’s primary communication tool for sending out information is through its website at www.ua.edu. In the event of an emergency, students should consult this site for directions.

My Pledge to You
I will facilitate and cultivate, as your professor, a learning community and encourage respect and inclusivity of all members and your diverse worldviews. I will strive to make every effort to follow the guidelines of this syllabus as listed and to make work engaging and relevant to our objectives; however, I reserve the right to amend this document as the need arises to ensure you are gleaning as much as possible from class time and its activities. In such instances, I will notify you in class and/or via email and will endeavor to provide reasonable time for you to adjust to any changes. I will listen actively and attentively and will be available during office hours as well as during individual conferences. I will do my best to support you as you work to become more confident, skilled critical thinkers and writers.
